SEAC and the Sir Wilfrid Laurier School Board Complementary Services are proud to host a free conference for all interested parents.

“Advocating for the Child in the School System: A Toolbox for Parents”

with Maureen Hunt, M.A.

Parents are natural advocates for their children. When a child has special needs, the need to play an active role in planning your child’s education is a vital component for success. This presentation will offer information on how to accomplish successful advocacy with understanding, compassion and awareness. The importance of nurturing and caring for ourselves as parents of children with special needs will be discussed.

Maureen Hunt has personal experience in the advocacy role as a parent of a successful LBPSB graduate. She has worked with several community organizations for many years in coaching parent advocates. Maureen is a member of Student Services at Lester B. Pearson and works with the Family and School Support and Treatment Team.
